

Abstract of the Disclosure

To reduce communication time and charge and construct an information service system with higher user convenience, a 5 server containing no map data transmits additional information to be presented on a map as data in specific format to navigation equipment or a PC each containing map data. The navigation equipment and the PC presents a map by adapting the data in specific format to the map data and then 10 adding the information related to the data in specific format to the map.